

Professional Services

Whether you are an independent professional or a multi-center professional services firm, Moxx provides a range of solutions to help you organize work and client projects better.

Content Management Our document and content management solutions allow teams to organize files better and control versioning. By improving workflows and simplifying access to key content, our systems allow you to focus on business &ndash; rather than finding documents. Our knowledge of industry-specific compliance and regulatory requirements allows us to tailor your document management workflows optimally. Groupware and Collaboration Our teamwork solutions provide you with an integrated portal with mail, shared calendars, corporate address books, project and task management and notes - available on your desktop and on your mobile phones.

Our partnership with dimdim allows you to collaborate with customers using integrated video, audio and chat sessions &ndash; and share applications and whiteboards in real time. Invoicing and Time Management Our project management tools allow you to design complex projects with multiple resources, tasks and timelines &ndash; and easily distribute them to multiple team members. Not only can you track progress against the project, but automatically invoice customers based on time spent.

Our project management tools allow multiple stakeholders to raise and resolve issues through time-driven workflows.

Not only do our solutions reduce manual effort involved in managing project status, they also improve transparency by allowing all stakeholders to view aspects of the project. Customer Relationship Management Moxx provides CRM tools for professional service providers that take care of customer relationship from prospecting and customer acquisition to service delivery. Consolidating customer interactions allows consistent service quality and improves demand generation through better campaign and sales execution. To learn more about how our solutions can provide your service business with a competitive advantage, please contact us .