

ERP Solutions

Moxx provides small and medium businesses with the right enterprise tools to manage their business processes. Using innovate delivery mechanisms and open source technologies, our solutions allow customers across industries to deploy and configure ERP systems at a fraction of similar alternatives in the market.

Our ERP implementations acknowledge that training, change management and usability matter as much as system functionality in order to ensure success of a project. By having our solutions work around business processes, rather than system modules &ndash; we improve user adoption and reduce information silos. By integrating world-class reporting and analytics solutions into the applications, we ensure that you have timely and accurate information from multiple business processes.

Using a web-based deployment platform reduces cost of maintenance and deployment, and ensures that system capacities grow to cater to your growing business demands. To access a detailed feature map of our ERP implementations or to talk to a representative, please contact us.