

Collaboration

Groupware

Moxx implements leading open source groupware solutions that integrate email, shared calendars, task management, notes and documents using a simple browser-based interface.

Besides enabling your teams across multiple office and field locations to easily interact with each other, groupware systems also enable field staff to instantly locate and download critical information from the corporate server anytime &ndash; on their laptops and mobile phones.

Instant Messaging

Our implementation services for Instant Messaging allow business-grade use of instant messaging &ndash; for everything from a quick customer conversation to multi-user chat groups for product development. By incorporating gateways to popular IM systems and presence awareness, we provide customers with a easy way to communicate effectively with internal and external users. To learn more about how our collaboration solutions can help your organization, please contact us .