

Service Portfolio

Led by a professional management team from India's Ivy League institutes - IITs and IIMs, members of Moxx's leadership team have led large teams in enterprise IT across multiple continents and technologies, and shown a strong commitment to quality engineering. We bring together the best practices in technology and business functions in each one of the industries we serve, so we understand your needs better and apply worldwide best practices to your solution.

Our development centers in India offer access to quality talent pool, and a proven recruitment and training program. At Moxx, we have an intense focus on open source technology: we believe that leveraging open source technology and standards helps our clients get better control over their application investments.
